3 PCA Namespace expansion

Finishing off the previous discussions and coming to an agreement on the namespaces to be used.

First some discussion on the community endpoints vs the staging environments.

Discussion about namespace partitions vs. 15926 classification of classes. A reference data item should only have a single namespace while it can have multiple classifications. The core partition will be dropped and classification will be used instead.

Obvious partitions are still classes and template definitions. More discussion on this and also mention of the use of graphs in part 11.

Discussion about abbreviations (tpl vs template). Abbreviations make the URIs shorter and will probably make the use of spreadsheets easier. Raises the bar for learning 15926.

Namespaces are finalised as:

Classes and properties: <http://data.posccaesar.org/rdl/>

Templates and properties for roles: <http://data.posccaesar.org/tpl/>

Patterns (ie. TSP): <http://data.posccaesar.org/ptrn/>

P2 datamodel (currently: http://rds.posccaesar.org/2008/02/OWL/ISO-15926-2_2003) : <http://data.posccaesar.org/dm/>

Action (1 2013-12-05): Update the JORD ID Spec document (Håvard).
